The Vehicle Defense Pistol Course will be covered in two parts, live fire and Force on Force (SIM).

Part 1 is designed to educate the participant on defending themselves, family, or friends from in and around a vehicle. The average commuter spends an estimated 1 to 3 hours daily in traffic. As such, learning to defend yourself in this environment is essential to your safety. The core topics covered in this course will be how to effectively and safely shoot your handgun and defend yourself and your family in and around the vehicle. We will demonstrate how ballistics behave when impacting the vehicle, windshield, and pillars, showing the truths and misconceptions of how effective a vehicle is as cover. Additionally, students will be taught how to communicate with each other as they attempt to move from cover to cover. Part 2 of the course will cover Force on Force (SIM). Students will now be able to apply the concepts and techniques learned during the first portion of the course against a live opponent. Students should be able to do light to moderate physical activity.
